

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a system and method for accessing financial information or conducting financial transactions and, more particularly, to an improved system and method
5 for accessing financial information or conducting financial transactions using wireless communications devices, such as cellular telephones, personal digital assistants, and other web-enabled wireless devices.